

Dear Khalsa ji

We were sent the following request.

This is about halal meat.

Many food companies do not put halal meat on the label, although the meat is halal or kosher or other sacrificial meat

While I appreciate that many of you do not eat meat at all, those who do, may wish to know whether it is halal or not.

If you feel strongly about this, sign the petition

Good evening,

I am writing on behalf of the Halal meat labeling campaign, and I'm writing to request that you publish an article or place a link on your official site and any related sites (eg. Facebook) regarding the official government petition we have started. It calls for all halal meat to be labeled clearly as people in Britain have been deceived over this issue by mass corporations for years. It is unfair and insulting that Halal meat is being sold unlabeled as people will then consume it without knowing, especially seeing it is forbidden for Sikhs to consume halal meat. Below is a link to the petition which was started last month. Regards and thank you for your time,
James Howson.
